Soon Will Begin Work on Building to Cost Nearly $200,000

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Radford, Va., October 3.—The board of trustees of the Radford State Normal School met here to-day and took preliminary steps for prosecuting work on the new institution. Captain W. T. Baldwin, cha'rman, and Mesars. Bianton, Tucker, Sherer, Smith and Wilson were present, with Judge Cassel acting as secretary. The board elected Professor John Preston Moconnell, of Emory and Henry, as president of the normal, and D. E. Copenhaver, superintendent of schools in Smyth county, assistant president. W. T. Baldwin remains president of the board, and George E. Cassel, secretary, and R. J. Noell, secretary-treasurer of the school.

Bristol, Va., October 3—The news that the board of visitors of the Radford Normal and Industrial School, the new State institution at Radford, to-day unanimously elected Dr. John P. McConnell, of Emory and Henry Col-lege, president of the former school, will be gladly received throughout will be gladly received throughout Southwest Virginia, as Dr. McCodnell is one of the best known and most popular educators in this end of the State. In nominating him for the position, Professor W. D. Smith, a member of the box -, and himself a prominent educator, complimented Dr. McConnell in high terms. He said he had known him in childhood, and later as a teacher in a log cabin and later as college professor, following his grad-

Hampshire and Massachusetts Over Eddy Estate.

Boston, October 3 .- The great legal contest to determine whether New Hampshire or Massachusetts is entitled to an inheritance tax upon the estate of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, which is valued at more than $2,000,000, was begun before Judge Morton in the Supreme Judicial Court to-day. There was a large attendance from Hampshire, including former United States Senator William E. Chandler, Attorney-General Eastman and Gen

Attorney-General Eastman and General Frank S. Streeter,

The questions which will arise grow out of an appeal taken by Attorney-General Swift, of Massachusetts, from the allowance of ancillary proceedings by the Probate Court of Suffolk county on the will and two codicils of Mrs. Eddy. The Attorney-General contends that the Probate Court of Suffolk county did not have jurisdiction, as Mrs. Eddy lived and died in Newton, which is in Middlesex county. Mr. Swift claims that the legal as well as the actual domicile of Mrs. Eddy was in Massachusetts, and that the Probate Court of Middlesex should treat her will as an original document, and not merely as a copy of a New Hampshire document.

Considerable evidence of the matter of doinicile will be offered by both sides.

Radford, Va., October 3.—Radford entertained the scouts of the Bristol to-Washington Highway Association this afternoon. Owing to the wet roads, the scouts were not guided in by way of Stalban's bridge, but were met at Ingles Ferry by the Radford pilots, and taken to the courthouse, where women served refreshments.

George A. Sullivan called the gathering to order, and introduced President W. H. Aston, of the highway association, who in turn introduced the speakers of his party. O. L. Omohundro told of the work already accomplished in connecting Bristol with the Mississippi; Highway Commissioner St. Julien Wilson told of the proposed route to Washington, and unless certain counties on the line of the old rock road bestir, he said, the route was likely to be swerved by the new roads being constructed between Cumberland Gap and Bluefield. Addresses were also made by Secretary Runnels, of the Bristol Board of Trade; Judge Cassel, of Radford, who premised Radford's sumpathy, and by Charles P. Light, of the American Road Improvement Association, Mr. Runnels said he had found that Bristol, Pulaski and Radford were white spots on the touring maps, and that he had brought the matter up, and as a result new maps to be out in two months will have these places in big letters.

The speakers found here a very interested and enthusiastic audience.

PERJURY CHARGE

Returned Against Supervisor of Livingston District, in Spotsylvania.

Spotsylvania.

[Special to The Timea-Dispatch.] Spotsylvania, Va., October 3.—Yesterday the regular grand jury, upon an investigation of the charges made by Pelham G. Finney, commissioner of the revenue for Livingston District, of this county, brought in an indictment against B. C. Dickinson, the supervisor of that district, for perjury. This case grew out of the alleged refusal of Dickinson to list with the commissioner certain solvent bonds he held covering several hundred dollars, and afterwards assigned them to his wife. Mr. Dickinson entered in a recognizance, and the case was set for trial at the next December term of the Circuit Court.

Notwithstanding the Democratic primary is over, candidates are still announcing their candidacy for public former. B. F. Eastbrim Las announced his candidacy for supervisor of Courtland District against Charles R. Andrews, the incumbent, and Page G. Finney is out for commissioner of the county. This makes thirteen candidates in all for commissioner of reverse.
